RE: Nick Lamshed

To whom it may concern,

Wideform Constructions recently engaged the services of Nick Lamshed of TLC Training to develop and custom build an Access database to record, track and report quality and safety issues within our business.

During the initial briefings and subsequent project development meetings, Nick has exhibited a clear understanding of our objectives and shown an obvious ability to convert the briefings into a working database. Nick has easily interpreted our objectives and shown a professional manner at all times.

The project remains ongoing as some expansion to the brief has extended the commission. We are extremely pleased with the progress to date.

Please contact me directly if there are areas that require further discussion.
